REFLECT AND REFRACT

Using glass and mirrors, the new facade of the building will reflect the light onto the old and restored facade. It will bring light to the purple panel that makes this building unique. During the day, it is a light source that brings the natural light from the south side and brings it to the north facing facade to reflect and refract the light. While at night there is artificial light that continues to light up the front of the building.